NEGROES WITH MANY WEAPONS

Carrying Concealed Weapons a Serious Question.

HE CUT HIS MOTHER-IN-LAW.

'Squire Louie Graves Still Runs the Mill in Place of Justice John Who is Sick—Court Does Not Pay Expenses.

Cutting and shooting cases by negroes comprise one-third of the felony cases sent to the grand jury from the Police Court.

A large part of the negroes arrested for petty offenses when searched at the police stations either have a pistol or a razor. Justice Crutcher has fixed the maximum fine for carrying concealed weapons at $50 and thirty days in jail.

Some time ago the penalty was made much less. The offense increased to a small degree and the larger penalty was adopted.

It had an apparent salutary effect, but now the cuttings and shootings have become so numerous that the Police Justice seriously considers making the penalty even more severe.

What to do with the cutting and shooting negroes is quite a question in the Police Court.

GRINDING OUT JUSTICE.

The wheels of justice turned a little heavily in the Police Court yesterday, but the grist was even and up to the standard of the best brands.

Justice John who usually dispenses the products of the mill with so much success and satisfaction to all, was still sick in his little cottage under the hill. He is reported much-improved but 'Squire Louie Graves still had charge of the machinery.

He kept the wheels well oiled and the mill ran with very little noise.

The receipts for the day were very small and did not pay expenses, but that was due to the inferiority of the grain that was sent to the mill and not the fault of the miller.

Daniel Graham (colored) took a short cut to save a case of tonics and medicine. He had a row with his wife and Ellen Watkins, her mother, but in an hour Daniel pulled a knife and stabbed the old lady in the side, but the point struck a rib and her life was saved.

FAMILY REASONS.

For family reasons there was an attempt to patch up the affair and all hands tried to make it appear that the cutting was accidental.

'Squire Louie Graves decided that he would rather a jury would decide this point and sent the case on to the Hustings Court.

St. Thomas (colored) who was charged with being drunk, disorderly and trespassing on the premises of Mary Hill was sent to jail in default of security for thirty days.

George L. Smith answered the charge of recklessly driving a horse through the streets and seriously injuring J. Ray Rogers an infant. The case was continued to the 12th.

The father of the child, who did not arrive until the court had adjourned, stated that the child was not hurt and asked to have the case dismissed. 'Squire Graves decided to let the matter stand and hear the evidence when it comes up, especially as the father was not a witness to the accident and could not testify as to the charge of fast driving.

CARRYING A PISTOL.

Henry Jackson (colored) was fined fifty dollars for carrying a concealed weapon, to-wit, a pistol. Henry claimed that he was carrying the pistol for another fellow and with the air of a millionaire, announced that his reason for declining to pay the fine preferred to suffer in duration, while rather than submit to an injustice.

William Smith (colored) was charged with cutting Henry Smith with a knife. William Smith is a shoemaker and Henry Smith a member of another branch of the Smith family. William a dollar, which he declined to pay.

William took revenge by attacking a knife in Henry's leg.

He was sent on to the grand jury.

INTERESTING OLD STRUCTURE.

The Ancient Building at the Corner of Nineteenth and Main Streets Being Torn Down—Something About Its History.

On the corner of Nineteenth and Main streets has stood for many years a large four-story building with the grim, gray walls and wide, high-arched doors of the houses of the past century.

The oldest citizens of Richmond cannot remember when it was built or for what purpose it was first used, but from its shape and the large spacious rooms, it is very reasonable to suppose that it was erected for a hotel, and as such it has been used a number of times.

This building is now known as the Old Dominion Hotel and it forms a companion to the historic Washington's headquarters just across the street.

REMOVING A LANDMARK.

Workmen are now at work pulling down the old structure and soon new brick buildings and storehouses will appear in its stead.

The houses of ancient times were built with such skill and of such excellent material that the work of tearing down the old house is more laborious than building the new ones.

A number of years before the civil war this house was occupied by a Mr. Crump who owned the "Farmers' Hotel" there. It was the headquarters for all the tobacco buyers and the farmers who came to the city to dispose of their crops. Mr. Crump was a great favorite with this class and his house was noted throughout the section for its excellent accommodations.

The "Farmers' Hotel" was closed after a long run, and the building became occupied by a medical college of which a Dr. Johnson was president. The apartments in which the farmers had been housed were now used for dissecting halls and lecture rooms in which the young doctors worked on their "subjects" and recited their studies, and the building became a terror to the darkeys who thought that they would be captured, carried to this place and converted into different kinds of medicine.

HOTEL, ONCE MORE.

As time passed the college changed its locality and the building was again used as a hotel, being called the Old Dominion Hotel, by which name it is known to-day. The hotel continued through the war and closed shortly afterwards.

After the Old Dominion Hotel went out of business the late Dr. Charles H. Corey came to the city and the Richmond Theological Seminary held its first sessions in the old hotel. This school was for the teaching of colored ministers, and the building was occupied by them for a number of years.

After the departure of the theological students the house was turned over to the colored people for a school, and such was its use until this year when it was decided to tear it down and erect new buildings on the site.

The work of destruction is rapidly going on and before long every vestige of the old structure will be gone and with it, one of the landmarks of ancient Richmond.

Knocked Down by a Wagon.

William Foster, a white man, was knocked down by a long eared vehicle of the Gallego Mills against the city for $500 damages alleged to have been caused by sewer breakage and overflow. There are half a dozen other suits against the city on account of sewer breakage, and the city is expected to come up with this one of them.

The decision in one will dispose of all, as the cases are similar.

Among other notable suits for damages is that of Dr. Susan A. Brown against the J. L. Hill Printing Company, for $300; those of James B. Burpee and John W. Talley against the Fairmount Traction Company, for $500 each, and John E. Kland's administrative suit against the C. & O. railway company, for $200.

THE HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

An Interesting Meeting Held at the Rooms Last Night.

The September meeting of the Executive Committee of the Virginia Historical Society was held last night at the Society's house on Franklin street.

The usual report of the receipt of books and other publications was read.

The most interesting book received during the month was the "Proceedings of the Massachusetts Historical Society," containing a fine facsimile of the only known autograph letter of Captain John Smith.

The corresponding secretary stated that the catalogue of manuscripts had been prepared, but that the promised gift to the Society of a large quantity of manuscripts would make many additions to this portion necessary.

The following new member were elected: Life—Mrs. Phoebe A. Hearse, Messrs. D. M. Hall, Virginia and Cornelius Buckley, Wisconsin.

The corresponding secretary was directed to receive the thanks of the Society to Rev. E. E. Hoss, LL. D., of Nashville, Tenn., for his offer to read before the Society some time in the fall, a paper on John Stoner, the first governor of Tennessee, who was a native of Rockingham county, Va., and to arrange for time and place for its delivery. When the paper is read the public will be invited to attend.

CLAY WARD ACTIVES.

Old Officers Re-Elected—List of New Members Taken in Last Night.

An inspiring address marked the meeting of the Clay Ward Actives at the Delvidge Hall last night. Besides a high attendance of members, there were several distinguished visitors present from other city Democratic organizations, several of whom, when the regular business had been concluded, were called upon for a speech, and briefly responded.

The first business was the annual election of officers. The old staff was complimented when it was unanimously re-elected as follows:

Evans Spear, president.
H. L. Carter, first vice-president.
C. W. Davis, second vice-president.
R. W. Saunders, secretary.

B. A. Jacob, treasurer.
New members were elected last night as follows: Messrs. Charles W. Goddin, E. M. Taylor, H. Stuart Boykin, George Perry, Peter Krug, and John E. Rogers.

The report of the treasurer, which was referred to the Auditing Committee, showed a balance on hand of $23.24.

How Mrs. Pinkham HELPED MRS. GOODEN.

[LETTER TO MRS. PINKHAM NO. 12,733]

"I am very grateful to you for your kindness and the interest you have taken in me, and truly believe your medicines and advice are worth more to a woman than all the doctors in the world. For years I had female troubles and did nothing for them. Of course I became no better and finally broke down entirely. My troubles began with inflammation and hemorrhages from the kidneys, then inflammation, congestion and falling of the womb and inflammation of ovaries.

"I underwent local treatment every day for some time; then after nearly two months the doctor gave me permission to go back to work. I went back, but in less than a week was compelled to give up and go to bed. On breaking down the second time, I decided to let doctors and their medicine alone and try your remedies. Before the first bottle was gone I felt the effects of it. Three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and a package of her Sanative Wash did me more good than all the doctors' treatments and medicine.

"The first remark that greets me now is 'How much better you look!' and you may be sure I never hesitate to tell the cause of my health.—Mrs. E. J. GOODEN, ACKLEY, IA.

By Dr. Gooden, of the ambulance corps, and left.

QUESTION OF FRANCHISES.

Much Interest Felt in Street Committee Meeting of Next Friday.

The gentlemen interested in the several street franchises, who are to meet after the expiring franchises of the Richmond Railway and Electric Company look forward with a great deal of interest to the meeting of the Street Committee on Friday, the 15th. The committee will at that time take up the matter of franchises, which will be proposed by the Board of Public Works, which claims to control the entire property of the city, and which asks for the franchises to cover the various franchises of the old company.

The action of the committee cannot, of course, be forced, but the belief is entertained in well-informed quarters that the committee will not award the franchises desired by the Board of Public Works, but will first allow other competing syndicates an opportunity to make bids. In order to throw open the door for competition, it is said the Board of Public Works will be under the necessity of placing the old franchises now controlled by it in the hands of the Council. This it can be stated positively, will not be done.

When the anticipated demand of the Council for the old franchises is made a condition precedent to any grant of new ones is refused, the Council, it is predicted, will take action, whatever, which would throw the entire question of franchises over to next year. The next Council will be empowered to act after July, 1900.

HAY FEVER OR ENDEMIC CATARRH.

The Remarkable Experience of a Philadelphia Architect With This Malady.

Hay fever is really acute catarrh excited by minute emanations from certain grasses, flowering plants, fungi, or dried vegetable substances. It is very sudden in its onset, and, without proper treatment, continues until the season changes or the patient goes to some favorable locality. It has all the symptoms of acute catarrh—sneezing, abundant exudations of mucus, and thickened, reddened mucous membranes, some times exciting spasmodic asthma.

"I had taken these four bottles during February, March and April, when I not only felt greatly better, but was as the case stands now, cured, for every year for these three years the attacks returned about the middle of August and lasted until December. During the critical month of September I have had only a slight attack of hay-fever or catarrh, which I get rid of by taking about three-fourths of a bottle of Peruna, while, for instance, the autumn of '97, during which time I had only redress to the remedies then known to me, I suffered for months. I have been entirely free from catarrh this autumn with the exception of the above mentioned time."

J. NASCHOLD.

Peruna is a specific for hay fever, and should be taken during the whole season of the exposure to the cause, for as long as the exciting cause remains, no cure can be permanent. People who are unable to change their location during the season of hay fever will find in Peruna a priceless benefit to them, as it meets every disagreeable symptom exactly. It is always advisable to begin the use of Peruna a week or two before the expected attack of hay fever in old cases, where the attack can be foretold, as this will often prevent entirely the return of the disease. Address Dr. Hartman, Columbus, O., for a free book.

Mr. J. Naschold, 425 West Mt. Pleasant avenue, Philadelphia, Pa., recommends Peruna for hay fever or endemic catarrh (hay fever). He writes:

"I have used your treatment for catarrh

Through mucous membranes made porous by catarrh. Peruna heals the mucous membranes and prevents the entrance of malarial germs, thus preventing and curing these affections.

THEY DECIDE TO WORK TOGETHER

Tournament Managers and Citizens Have Combined.

LAUNCHING OF THE SHUBRICK

It Will Be Made a Great Occasion, the Tournament Being Held on the Same Date—Richmond Lady May Be Chosen.

At the meeting of the Executive Committee of the Citizens' Committee on the celebration incidental to the launching of the "Shubrick" at Murphy's Hotel last night, it was determined that a united move should be made by that committee and the Old Dominion Tournament and Racing Association, to bring to the city a large number of
